WARWICK

When you talk school stationery, it's Warwick.
The Warwick exercise book has been part of New Zealanders' everyday lives since the first ones appeared in classrooms in 1956. Warwick continues to be top of the class with the new eco range of exercise books created under the tough Environmental Choice criteria.

Environmental Choice is only awarded to products which comply with robust, published environmental specifications, taking into account their whole life cycle. Among other things, the assessment looks at the processes employed in making pages and covers of exercise books, the coatings and pigments used, and of course the source of fibre.

Kiwi kids and their parents who want to help the environment can choose Warwick eco exercise books that are made right here in New Zealand.

A New Zealand Standard is in place for Exercise Books and is best known for its product coding system.

How does the coding system work?
